

ABSTRACT

The present invention provides relates to a process to produce egg yolk antibodies binding to small molecule organochlorine pesticides, by periodic immunization of the poultry birds with a desired hapten-protein conjugate in the breast muscle. Antibodies are harvested from egg yolk after five weeks interval.